3rd Sunday after Epiphany

Vol. 11, Number 9
Be not overcome by evil but overcome evil with good.

Today’s message from St. Paul, the great apostle of the nations, is one that we should keep in our hearts. We are overcome by evil when our anger leads us to be out of control. Anger is a powerful emotion, and while it can be useful for defense, it should not be used as a weapon. The goal is not to become insensitive to the evil done to us. Emotions are part of our nature. Feeling angry for a just cause is understandable. But revenge is not up to us but up to God. God will punish men and women for their sins. Whatever anger and outrage we feel, forgiving our enemies and rendering good for evil is the greatness of the true religion. Someone is able to forgive his enemies, to forgive offenses, to control himself or herself in such a way that he/she renders good for evil, it is a sign of a certain holiness, it is a sign of a true religion, it is a sign that we are really Christians and not hypocrites like the Pharisees. It is a perpetual struggle. We may win a battle here and there but the war is never over until we leave this world.
