Parable of the cockle / darnel / tare / weed

Jesus Himself gave the explanation of our parable to the disciples: Matt 13:36-43 “Then he left the crowds and went into the house. And his disciples came to him, saying, “Explain to us the parable of the weeds of the field.” He answered, “He who sows the good seed is the Son of man; the field is the world, and the good seed means the sons of the kingdom; the weeds are the sons of the evil one, and the enemy who sowed them is the devil; the harvest is the close of the age, and the reapers are angels. Just as the weeds are gathered and burned with fire, so will it be at the close of the age. The Son of man will send his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all lawbreakers, and throw them into the furnace of fire; there men will weep and gnash their teeth. Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears, let him hear.”

Lolium temulentum, typically known as darnel, cockle, tare (zizania in Greek and Latin in the Gospel) is an annual plant that can grow up to 3 foot tall. It usually grows in the same production zones as wheat. The similarity between these two plants is so great that in some regions, darnel is referred to as “false wheat”. It bears a close resemblance to wheat until the ear appears. The wheat will also appear brown when ripe, whereas the darnel is black. The French word for darnel is ivraie (from Latin ebracus, intoxicated), which expresses that weed’s characteristic of making one feel poisoned with drunkenness, and can cause death. This characteristic is also alluded to in the scientific name (Lolium temulentum = drunk).

The only way to separate the wheat from weeds—and most especially darnel which looks so much like wheat until it produces seeds—is to wait for the harvest. To try to do so while the wheat is growing will cause more harm than good. The harvest symbolizes the final judgment when everyone will be judged by the Lord. See Matt 24:31-46 “And they (the wicked) will go away to eternal punishment and the virtuous to eternal life.”
