In the Greek Church Holy Week bears the solemn title of the « Sacred and Great Week ». In the Latin Church the official term is the « Greater Week » (hebdomada maior). From the beginning it has always been devoted to a special commemoration of Christ’s Passion and death through the practice of meditation, prayer, fasting, and penance.

The Sacred Triduum of Holy Week (Thursday, Friday, Saturday) was a time of holyday obligation all through the Middle Ages. The Christian people, freed from servile work, were all present at the singular ceremonies of these days.

Since 1642 the last three days of Holy Week have been classified as working days, despite the sacred and important character they bear. All faithful, however, are urged to participate to these meaningful and beautiful ceremonies.

In the fourth century, the faithful in Jerusalem re-enacted the solemn entry of Christ into their city on the Sunday before Easter, holding a procession in which they carried branches and sang the "Hosanna" Hebrew word for 'Save now' (Matthew 21, 1-11). In the early Latin Church, people attending Mass on this Sunday would hold a lotus of olives.
